Customer Reviews

Handwriting ABC Book teaches children handwriting by providing the models and the practice materials they need to start off right.

This was really not what I thought I was ordering. The only "instruction" is "Write the letter, then the word!" I guess I was expecting a format where students trace a solid letter, then dotted letter, then write their own with a guided starting dot, then fully on their own. This really just has the letter, then several words beginning with that letter, (and I suppose I should add as a bonus that there is ample room for practice, with lots of blank lines), and a huge full-page picture to color that goes along with an alliterative rhyme for each letter. Also has a section of tear-apart cards with each letter and number, but I'm not sure what purpose they are intended to serve, as they don't appear to be dry-erasable. This would perhaps be a good supplement to writing practice, or something fun for a child who just really loves copywork, but it was not what I was hoping for or expecting, and I will be returning it.

I bought this book specifically for the tear-out alphabet cards. There are none in this book.

My favorite part of this book is the pullout middle section that shows the example of how to make each letter. This book could be improved by including rows of traceable letters. This seems to be made for someone who already knows the print. In which case, you wouldn't need this book. We haven't used anything besides the pull out and it will likely become more of a coloring book than anyone else. If you want to find a useful resource for teaching your child D'Nealian, there are FREE PRINTABLES that you can find and print. I printed the entire alphabet and I love the format. Look on Pinterest!

An absolutely perfect foundation in D'Nealian manuscript. Samples with individual removable sample cards for each letter and number. Exercises with practice pages.

Paper is a bit thin, so if they work on both sides, as they should, there is a bit of visual interference from the backside of the page.

Helpful for practice

Item just as described. The insert with "letter talk" is very helpful.

My six yr. old grandson loves it.
