ERRATA Question AM005 Weight of the subassembly should be 20,000 lb instead of 12,000

lb Question AM009 Change answer choice (C) to SC Question AM020 Add the words "(flowing full)" after "flow rate = 25 ft³/sec" Solution AM016 Correct Answer is C

Dr. Indranil Goswami is a professional engineer who has recently moved to consulting after spending 24 years as an engineering educator. He is the latest (2016) recipient of the PEHE Engineering Education Excellence Award from the National Society of Professional Engineers. He has also been honored by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Maryland Society of Professional Engineers for his contributions to engineering education. To date, he has published several titles in the area of review for the FE-Civil and PE-Civil examinations. He teaches an online review course for the Civil PE examination.

Based on the previous review, I offer the following in addition: AM005: Correct, the weight in the solution reads 20,000 lb, so change from 12,000 lb to 20,000 lb in the problem. AM015: This was tricky. I had to do some research. There are different values for f_{cr} based on the design strength of the concrete. AM016: Soil classification is typically indicated on a boring log. Not always, but typically. This was another trick style question. AM033: This was definitely an easier problem than it looks at first! Overall, it is a challenging practice exam, with a few flaws. It is worth the money, just my $0.02.

I just finished taking this practice exam and there are a few errors and comments I have: Question AM005: the weight should read 20000 lb not 12000 lb. Question AM015: where did those standard deviation equations come from? Question AM016: I think the correct answer should be C not D since USCS classifications have been on all boring logs that I have seen. Question AM033: Biggest trick question ever. I can't believe how straightforward that problem was.
