Ghillie Basan has travelled widely in Asia, working as a food and travel writer. With a cordon bleu diploma and a degree in social anthropology, she has used her knowledge of Asian culinary cultures to write several highly acclaimed cookbooks, including Modern Moroccan, Vietnamese and Classic Turkish Cookery, which was shortlisted for the Glenfiddich Book of the Year and the Guild of Food Writers' Cookery Book of the Year. Ghillie has been a regular contributor to the Sunday Tribune and Sunday Herald. She lives with her two children in a cottage in the Scottish highlands from where she runs cookery workshops.

I have gotten into a cookbook frenzy recently. I've purchased about 20 cookbooks. Yes, I love looking at how recipes work, even though I only follow 80 percent of the time (I like to insert my own techniques or take away/substitute some ingredients). This still remains to be my favorite one out of 20. Yes, it's that good! The first few pages shares a brief history of both cultures. I am Cambodian-American. So I have high interest in Cambodian food, desserts, and drinks. I was amazed by how many authentic meals were in this book. I cannot praise this book enough. Every recipe comes with several beautiful pictures. This book is what you'd call a "life-saver," because the steps are pretty basic. If you're into Southeast-Asian cooking like me, I highly recommend this book! It is worth every dime.

Great book with much variety and good instructions.
