Customer Reviews

Paul has traveled extensively in Southeast Asia, Eastern Europe, North Africa and the Indian subcontinent. He has spent the last fifteen years living and working in Indonesia, Singapore, Saudi Arabia and China as an English teacher. When not preparing his students for exams, Paul writes travel articles for several foreign magazines and travel websites, as well as helping to research and write guidebooks for Footprint.

A good book overall, but the Lonely Planet Borneo book is better and is kept more current (despite the dates of publication). If you want to buy 2, this would be a good second book.
