

The book was found

Do Not Ask What Good We Do: Inside The U.S. House Of Representatives

Synopsis

The U.S. House of Representatives—•a large, often unruly body of men and women elected every other year from 435 distinct microcosms of America—•has achieved renown as —“the people’s House,—• the world’s most democratic institution, and an acute Rorschach of biennial public passions. In the midterm election year 2010, recession-battered Americans expressed their discontent with a simultaneously overreaching and underperforming government by turning the formerly Democratically controlled House over to the Republicans. Among the new GOP majority were eighty-seven freshmen, many of them political novices with Tea Party backing who pledged a more open, responsive, and fiscally thrifty House. What the 112th Congress instead achieved was a public standing so low—•a ghastly 9 percent approval rating—• that, as its longest-serving member, John Dingell, would dryly remark, —“I think pedophiles would do better.—“ What happened? Robert Draper explores this question just as he examined the Bush White House in his 2007 New York Times bestselling book Dead Certain: The Presidency of George W. Bush—•by burrowing deeply inside the subject, gaining cooperation of the major players, and producing a colorful, unsparingly detailed, but evenhanded narrative of how the House of Representatives became a house of ill repute. Draper’s cast of characters spans the full spectrum of political experience and ideologies—from the Democrat Dingell, a congressman since 1955 (though elbowed out of power by the party’s House leader, Nancy Pelosi), to Allen West, a black Republican Tea Party sensation, former Army lieutenant colonel, and political neophyte with a talent for equal opportunity offending. While unspooling the boisterous, at times tragic, and ultimately infuriating story of the 112th Congress, Draper provides unforgettable portraits of Gabrielle Giffords, the earnest young Arizona congresswoman who was gunned down by a madman at the beginning of the legislative session; Anthony Weiner, the Democrats’ clown prince and self-made media star until the New Yorker self-immolated in a sex scandal; the strong-willed Pelosi and her beleaguered if phlegmatic Republican counterpart, House Speaker John Boehner; the affable majority whip, Kevin McCarthy, tasked with instilling team spirit in the iconoclastic freshmen; and most of all, the previously unknown new members who succeeded in shoving Boehner’s Republican Conference to the far right and thereby bringing the nation, more than once, to the brink of governmental shutdown or economic default. In this lively work of political narrative, Draper synthesizes some of the most talked-about breaking news of the day with the real story of what happened behind the scenes. This book is a timely and masterfully told parable of dysfunction that may well serve as Exhibit A of how Americans lost faith in their democratic institutions. ***

“Congress will rise June 1st, as most of us expect. Rejoice when that event is ascertained. If we should finish and leave the world right side up, it will be happy. Do not ask what good we do: that is not a fair question, in these days of faction.”

—Congressman Fisher Ames, May 30, 1796

In Do Not Ask What Good We Do, Robert Draper captures the prophetic sentiment uttered by Fisher Ames over two centuries ago. As he did in writing about President George W. Bush in Dead Certain, Draper provides an insider’s book like no one else can—this time, inside the U.S. House of Representatives. Because of the bitterly divided political atmosphere we live in, because of the combative nature of this Congress, this literary window on the backstage machinations of the House is both captivating and timely—revealing the House in full, from the process of how laws are made (and in this case, not made) to the most eye-popping cast of lawmakers Washington has ever seen.

Book Information

Hardcover: 352 pages

Publisher: Free Press (April 24, 2012)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1451642083

ISBN-13: 978-1451642087

Product Dimensions: 6 x 1.1 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.3 pounds

Average Customer Review: 4.2 out of 5 stars 62 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #220,350 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #110 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Politics & Government > United States > Legislative Branch #9172 in Books > History > Americas > United States

Customer Reviews

In the mid-1790s, Fisher Ames, a member of the First Federal Congress, declined to run for a fifth term in the House, questioning the usefulness of the legislative body, given the divided politics of the time, and making the remark that lends itself to the title of this book. The best-selling author of Dead Certain: The Presidency of George W. Bush (2007), Draper takes an unsparing look at the contemporary House of Representatives, given the divided politics of our time. Draper focuses on the major players, including Republican House Speaker John Boehner and Democratic House leader Nancy Pelosi, as well as the freshman class of the 112th Congress to offer a revealing look at the messy legislative process. Among 435 colleagues, the ambitious distinguish themselves as earnest ideological newcomers, many sponsored by the Tea Party, and search to find effectiveness. Boehner, Pelosi, and their respective party members cut deals for votes, campaign funds, committee assignments, and other measures of influence, handing out rewards and punishments based on compliance with party politics— with very little legislative work getting done. This is a timely and insightful look at lawmakers as Americans brace themselves for continued political gridlock. --Vanessa Bush

Robert Draper is a contributing writer to the New York Times Magazine and National Geographic and a correspondent to GQ. He is the author of several books, most recently the New York Times bestseller Dead Certain: The Presidency of George W. Bush. He lives in Washington, DC.

The capture of the way the GOP plotted against a US President is well written.

Great book on understanding our government

Fascinating and troubling. Meticulously reported.

Fantastic description of the 112th Congress. Reads like a novel and is a compelling read.

Great book. I read it awhile back but today I thought of it again. Kevin McCarthy another loser.

Depressing in some ways but a good piece of work summarizing a lot of the dysfunction in the House.

Every citizen needs to read this book. It ought to be required before voting.

Finally the Truth comes out, Thanks for writing this book Mr. Draper.

Download to continue reading...

Do Not Ask What Good We Do: Inside the U.S. House of Representatives The House: The History of the House of Representatives ALEXA: 2000 BEST AND FUNNY THINGS TO ASK ALEXA: LONGEST LIST OF TOP QUESTIONS TO ASK ALEXA — NEVER RUN OUT OF QUESTIONS TO ASK ALEXA Gerrymandering in America: The House of Representatives, the Supreme Court, and the Future of Popular Sovereignty Tiny Houses: Minimalist—s Tiny

House Living (Floor Plans Included) (tiny house construction, tiny homes, tiny house design, small houses, small homes, tiny house building, tiny house lifestyle, micro homes) House Plants: A Guide to Keeping Plants in Your Home (House Plants Care, House Plants for Dummies, House Plants for Beginners, Keeping Plants in Your Home, DIY House Plants Book 1) American Showcase: Artists' Representatives/Illustrators & Designers, 23rd Edition, Book 1 & 2 (SET) (200 Best Illustrators Worldwide) (No. 23) The Executor's Handbook: A Step-by-Step Guide to Settling an Estate for Personal Representatives, Administrators, and Beneficiaries, Fourth Edition Ask and It Is Given - Part 1: The Law of Attraction (Ask and It Is Given) (Pt.I) The Ask: How to Ask for Support for Your Nonprofit Cause, Creative Project, or Business Venture Amazing Questions Kids Ask about God (Questions Children Ask) The Ask Suze Financial Library, Comprehensive Answers to Essential Financial Questions - 9 Book Set, Ask Suze About Social Security, Love & Money, Stocks & Bonds, Mutual Funds & Annuities, Insurance, Real Estate, Planning Future, Debt, Wills & Trusts (9 Book Set) Ask Elizabeth: Real Answers to Everything You Secretly Wanted to Ask About Love, Friends, Your Body... and Life in General Inside Administrative Law: What Matters and Why (Inside Series) (Inside (Wolters Kluwer)) Adventure Guide Inside Passage & Coastal Alaska (Adventure Guide to the Inside Passage & Coastal Alaska) (Adventure Guide to Coastal Alaska & the Inside Passage) Of Russia: A Year Inside (Of China: A Year Inside, Of Iraq: A Year Inside Book 1) "Do Not Worry, Do Not Be Anxious, Do Not Be Afraid": A Self-Help Manual for People Who Worry a Lot and Suffer Anxiety and Fear Unjournaling: Daily Writing Exercises That Are Not Personal, Not Introspective, Not Boring! Not for Tourists 2010 Guide to New York City (Not for Tourists Guidebook) (Not for Tourists Guidebooks) Not for Tourists Guide to 2010 Chicago (Not for Tourists Guidebook) (Not for Tourists Guidebooks)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help