David Robson's books for young readers include The Murder of Emmett Till, The Israeli-Palestinian Conflict, Auschwitz, The Decade of the 2000s, and Cyclops. He is also the award-winning playwright of Assassin, Playing Leni, American Child, A Few Small Repairs, Man Measures Man, and Killing Neil LaBute. His work has been performed across the country and abroad. Robson holds an M.F.A. from Goddard College, an M.S. from Saint Joseph's University, and a B.A. from Temple University. He is an associate professor of English at Delaware County Community College in Philadelphia.

This book was a disappointment. It only covers the black arts since 1964(death of Malcolm X) and completely negates the Harlem Renaissance or any of the black painters who came before. I am generally impressed with the books in this collection(Lucent Library of Black History) but this one was not on the mark.
